Top 10 Website

Manga Boys Write Up

Our group was called the Manga Boys. The Group consisted of Freddy Aguilar and Harrison Busby. We did our top 10 website on things relating to manga. First we did our prototype on Figma. Mine was related to Top 10 Bankai from the manga: Bleach and Freddy's was his Top 10 favorite manga of all time. We both separated our work out into pages with us sharing a home page, a styles.css page, and a about us page. I had 11 pages total with my first page being a spoiler warning, since my Top 10 related to things that haven't been included in the anime yet. The other 10 consisted of my favorite Bankai from Bleach. The format of my websites contained the same throughout: navbar, person's name, image carousel with anywhere from 2-5 images, a video, a description of the character, and the next page/back page buttons.

Now to talk about me. I believe that I did pretty good work on the website. I was really happy with how my pages turned out. The only thing that I was a little mad at myself for was that I wasn't able to animate the changing pages to drag. I would have had to use Javascript and I did not have the time, nor the patience to learn extra Javascript stuff. Overall though I'm really happy with how my pages turned out.

Now let's talk about Freddy, Freddy was really great to work with. It really helped that we were both doing our topic on Anime. I did not have any real problems with Freddy, the only problem that we had was a little issue with 's at the end. But other than that the work that he did was good. Really enjoyed working with him.
